FROM THE PRESIDENT

Steve and Sandra Smith provided another informative and inspiring program for us in April. Their discussion of PhotoShop techniques inspired many of us to go home and try them out. Their dependence on PhotoShop in day-to-day operations highlights how photographic studios have largely moved their entire work-flows to the digital domain. Our "Open" topic for the April competition was a trial-by-fire for first-time judge, Dan Burch, owner of the Meridian Art Gallery in Huntsville. Dan did an exceptional job of choosing the winners from a large and impressive array of high-quality prints and slides. Thanks, Dan for your considerable efforts.

Ken Webb, of Pulaski, TN, will be joining us again for our program meeting on May 10. Ken's presentation, entitled "Yellowstone in Winter", will include images from Yellowstone National Park during the harshest, and often, most beautiful, season of the year for visitors and inhabitants. Ken will share his cold-weather photographic experiences, that included challenges for both the photographer and his equipment.

Print Display Format ballot

The results of the Print Display Format balloting have been counted. There were 8 votes for displaying prints on the tables, and 4 votes for displaying the prints individually. This seems to be a pretty clear majority compared to the prior ballot in February, so we will continue displaying prints on the tables. It has been noted that there is usually a long period of little activity while the judge is making their decision. The board will be looking at options for filling this time. If you have any suggestions, please contact a board member.
